Comprehensive Statewide Program

The Robert Wood Johnson AIDS Program serves families statewide. It is one of seven regional treatment centers that comprise a statewide network for HIV care and treatment for all New Jersey families.

A joint program of Rutgers Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, the Robert Wood Johnson AIDS Program provides care for individuals who are infected and affected by human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), including HIV-positive pregnant women and HIV-exposed infants.

Our Goals:

- Ensuring comprehensive, quality HIV care to women and youth in a sensitive, caring environment with a commitment to excellence
- Active involvement in the development of health care policies affecting people living with HIV
- Participation in basic and clinical research in the field of HIV
- Education of health care professionals, medical students, residents, social service professionals, community groups, and the public at large regarding HIV infection and the various medical, psychosocial, ethical, and legal issues surrounding HIV disease
