INSPIRE Scientific Teaching Seminar

Why Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, Justice, and Accessibility are NOT bad words

Dr. Angeline Dukes

University of Minnesota

Friday May 2nd, 2025
12:00 pm

Research Tower – East Lecture Hall
675 Hoes Lane, Piscataway 08854

Lunch provided afterwards to those who register online →

To meet with Dr. Dukes please contact:
Caroline Schwaner caroline.schwaner@rutgers.edu

Dr. Angeline Dukes is the founding president of Black in Neuro, an international organization dedicated to supporting and empowering Black scholars in neuroscience. She is an Assistant Professors at the University of Minnesota in the Department of Neuroscience and serves as co-director of the MINDS Post-Baccalaureate Program. Dr. Duke's contributions to neuroscience and advocacy have earned her recognition on the Forbes 30 Under 30 list.

RUTGERS
Robert Wood Johnson Medical School

Sponsored by the NIH-funded INSPIRE* Postdoctoral Research and Education Training Program (*IRACDA NJ/NY for Science Partnerships in Research and Education) and the office of the Dean of Robert Wood Johnson Medical School